"Facing Reality: The Facts About Teen Drug & Alcohol Use" featuring
Howard Riesel,
LCSW, BCD, CASAC

In Glen Cove, the age of when a child takes their first drink or experiments with drugs, is reported as early as age 10. Parents often believe their kids will never be involved with alcohol or drugs. This workshop centers on the many challenges parents face today and the role they need to take with their adolescent. Participants are provided an overview of how to recognize the sign and symptoms of substance abuse as well as how to intervene with their adolescents.

Howard Riesel, LCSW, BCD, CASAC is the Coordinator of the Adolescent Services Unit, a Division of Community Psychiatry & Substance Abuse Services at the Glen Cove Hospital. Mr. Riesel has lectured on adolescent and family therapy in substance abuse treatment and is an Instructor for the Addiction Studies Program at Molloy College.
