SAFE'S PRIDE PROJECT COALITION

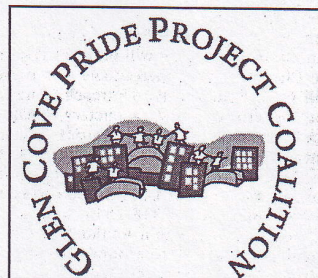

Participants from the Glen Cove Police Department were trained in PACT360, making them the first police department on Long Island to be so.

Police & Communities Working Together

On March 11 the Glen Cove Police Department, the SAFE Inc. PRIDE Coalition, and the Glen Cove School District teamed up with The Partnership at Drugfree.org to be trained on the PACT360 - Police And Communities Together program at Glen Cove High School. PACT360 is a law enforcement-led community prevention education system designed to deal with existing drug and alcohol issues and rapidly respond to emerging drug threats. The goal is to help reduce illicit drug use and its accompanying criminal behavior thereby improving the safety and quality of life of the community - a goal that the PRIDE Coalition and Glen Cove Police Department have been working toward in Glen Cove for several years.

The three components of the training included Parents360: Parents You Matter, drug specific modules including heroin and over-the-counter and prescription medication, and Youth360 - wreckED, the youth education program. Each program included teaching materials, media components, and online resources to provide extensive support and resources to program trainees when dealing with drug and alcohol related issues. "The world our kids are growing up in is not the same world we grew up in," stated Kevin Collins, deputy director of Community Education Programs at The Partnership at Drugfree.org. "We can't bubble wrap our kids, but we want to guide them to having as many positive and healthy experiences as possible." A turn-key program, the participants of this training are now to trainers and presenters, prepared to spread the information to parents and other caregivers throughout Glen Cove.

Contracting with The Partnership at Drugfree.org, the Glen Cove Police Department is to thank for bringing this training free of charge to our city. The first police department to be trained in this program on Long Island; Glen Cove Police officers remain on the forefront of effective drug and alcohol prevention education.

"I am extremely grateful to The Partnership at Drugfree.org and SAFE, Inc. for providing my officers with this training," stated Chief William Whitton of the Glen Cove Police Department. "As law enforcement officers and community members, we strive to keep our communities safe and healthy. Without exception, issues surrounding drug use and abuse by the children in our community are taken seriously by the officers in this department, and I personally welcome any opportunity to expand our anti-drug education reach."

PACT360 presentations will be showcased throughout Glen Cove at various venues. The goal is to raise awareness among youth and adults while also providing prevention education and literature to safeguard our teens against the potential dangers of drugs and alcohol. The School District and local agencies will be hosting this program, featuring Glen Cove Police officers.

"We are excited to partner with SAFE and the Glen Cove Police Department in offering the PACT360 program at the Boys & Girls Club," stated Melissa Tierney, executive director of the Glen Cove Boys & Girls Club and Co-Chair of the PRIDE Youth Committee. "As an active member

Animal Lovers League Rescue on Thursday, April 7

On Thursday, April 7, at noon, the Animal Lovers League will join the Glen Cove Fire Department and Police Department in the removal of a very large number of cats, kittens and ferrets from an apartment of an animal hoarder in Glen Cove.

The League reported that conditions in the apartment are squalid and filthy, and that the Fire Department will assist with their emergency gear due to huge amounts of cat feces and urine and intense odor and ammonia fumes. It is estimated by the League that 60 plus animals have been housed in the apartment.

The animals will be removed to an emergency isolation area established at the shelter for evaluation, medical care and adoption. This will present a huge burden to the Animal Lovers in terms of financial expense and work.

"These cats and kittens will need loving homes," said Joan Phillips, president. "Our resources will be stretched to the utmost... donations of cat food and kitty litter will be welcomed too."

of the Coalition, I feel that it is crucial to educate our youth, teens and families on the dangers of substance abuse."

"This program embraces our goal as a coalition," stated Dr. Sharon Harris, executive director of SAFE, Inc. and PRIDE Coalition Co-Chair. "The PRIDE Coalition and the Glen Cove Police Department have worked tirelessly to utilize environmental strategies in reducing underage drinking and illicit drug use in Glen Cove. The PACT360 program will strengthen these efforts, and has the potential to greatly improve the quality of life in our city."

SAFE Inc. is committed to eliminating teen alcohol use in Glen Cove. Through a combination of prevention, education, and law enforcement efforts, SAFE Inc. combats the devastating effects that can result from underage drinking and drug use in order to build a safer Glen Cove.

Through a combination of prevention, education, and law enforcement efforts, the SAFE Inc. PRIDE Project Coalition remains committed to combating the devastating effects that can result from underage drinking and drug use in order to build a safer Glen Cove. In 2004, and again in 2008, SAFE, Inc. received a Drug-Free Communities Support Program Grant from the Office of National Drug Control Policy, making it one of only 224 agencies nationwide to be so awarded. In addition, the Coalition works in conjunction with the Glen Cove Police Department under a grant for the Enforcement of Underage Drinking Laws. The PRIDE Project Coalition is made up of parents, police personnel, educators, and health care, financial and business professionals and is overseen by SAFE's board of directors.

To obtain teen or parent resources regarding drug and alcohol prevention or treatment, contact the SAFE office at 676-2008.
